

JellyBop

Art: Tiger Wizard - Words: Dragon Warrior Story by: Andrew Bellury, Nikki Johnson, Rob Bellury, Steve Albertson

What is known. The party has been hired to clean up the town of Peachykeen's drug problem, only to find out it's a suburban utopia with manicured lawns and a culinary obsession with jelly and gelatins. They'll be met by the dashing yet incredibly square Reginald Wiggles who'll invite them to dinner before the big sock hop at the dancehall. Townies will vehemently deny that any drug use could ever happen in such an idyllic place. The big secret. Assimilation! The Jelly is a gelatinous deity in the center of the volcano and worshiped by the villagers as they increase the ranks of their extraplanar hivemind overlord. The volcano at the center of town is but a finger of the behemoth slime god that penetrated the soil less than a year ago. Cultists are mining The Jelly and synthesizing it's primordial pectin preserves to create the drug simply called "jelly." Today's the day that the Jelly Pope is going to complete his year-long ritual and erupt The Jelly into our world.

Mayor Zelatina (The Jelly Pope) This elderly man with wiggling chins wears a tuxedo when talking to outsiders, but dresses in layers of golden vestments and wears a massive hat made of a 2-foot-tall gelatin mold when he is holding services as The Jelly Pope. He speaks for The Jelly, and is in fact a sentient pile of gelatin wearing a skin suit. If his human form is killed, he will ooze from the skin suit and summon all the loose jelly around town to form a kaiju gelatin monster. He can only complete the ritual wearing human skin. He has a cute, beer-can-sized jelly golem familiar named Flubbo that causes mayhem. Jelly Popeanin-ions. Reginald Wiggles: the town greeter, sly cultist and the Jelly Pope's 2nd in command. The townspeople: Pod People, Body Snatcher, Stepford Wives types who really want to feed you gelatin. King Jellies: Strawberry flavored 10-foot gelatin mold that engulfs it's victims. Save to escape, or be dissolved in 2d4 rounds. Prince Jellies: Lemon Lime flavored ooze that splits into two parts when hit and melts flesh with its touch. Duke Jellies: Grape flavored ooze that splits into two parts when hit, melts wood with it's touch and has a toxic vapor in a 10-foot radius. Jelly Jimmy Jams: human sized jelly golems used for menial labor. Granite Jaw. This Rockfolk janitor is the town's head custodian and the one who sent for outside help. He's always drinking out of a sippy straw and saying things like, "a strong name for a strong jaw." He has a secret lab in the basement of the dance hall where he's been working on a solution to this jelly problem. He's built The Dimensional Vacuum that deals double damage to jellies, and can suck The Jelly back to its own dimension, but he needs the Jelly Codex to tune the vacuum's oscillators to get it functioning properly. The Jelly Codex This eldritch 1950's gelatin mold cookbook is actually a grimoire that the Jelly Pope is using to pull The Jelly into this dimension. It's pages contain insane recipes for gelatin molds involving mayo, shrimp, hotdogs and salads that are actually summoning spells. The Jelly (extraplanar god) Looking into the green-blue finger of swirling slime pushing into our dimension has a disorienting effect, a mashup of vertigo and hunger. It has a 100-foot aura of corrosiveness and anyone near it must wear a protective suit or suffer 1d6 damage every round and roll a mind-based save or be shown a jellyworld hellscape that will shake you for the rest of your days. Touching The Jelly painfully turns you into a jelly blob and assimilates you into its gelatinous flesh. Jelly (the drug) Looks and tastes like grape jam. Gives you "jellyvision" where you share thoughts and can see out of everyone else's eyes. You are temporarily part of the hivemind, very pleasant, polite and subdued. Being part of the hivemind means using jelly continually to remain a part of the hivemind. Jelly wears off in 24 hours after non-use. The Town of Peachykeen The population is mostly human and some rockfolk. There's a caste system where the humans have jelly parties and the rockfolk do all the work. Today is festival day, and the dance craze "the jiggle" is sweeping the town. Mount Jelsuvius: The volcano at the center of town will erupt The Jelly if the party can't stop the Jelly Pope's ritual. Dance Hall: The main community center where tonight's sock hop will be held. Granite Jaw's lab and apartment are in the basement. This is also where an underground rebellion of rockfolk hold their clandestine meetings. Reginald's House: This entire neighborhood has immaculate houses with pristine yards, but Reginald's house is the crown jewel. His wife and children are perfectly behaved and will constantly offer the PCs gravity-defying gelatin dishes with odd combinations like pork and asparagus. Mrs. Wiggins will insist on a party theme with dancing, signature drinks and party games. The Sideways Saloon: This watering hole was turned on it's side when The Jelly's finger created the volcano. Rock Johnson runs the place and likes to call people "jabronies." They are processing the jelly drug in the back for mass consumption. Mayor's Mansion: This two-story manor is completely off limits and closely watched by everyone in town. The outside entrance is always guarded by 4 rockfolk soldiers, and the inside is filled with the Jelly Pope's staff of Jelly Jimmy Jams. The entrance to the Jelly Temple is in the basement. The Jelly Temple - Volcano lair Altar Room: This is where the congregation worships The Jelly. Church services involve devouring gelatin, a Jelly Pope sermon, and concluding with a human sacrifice. Victims are tossed through the large hole in the center of the room that leads to The Jelly. Falling through the hole is certain death. The Jelly Pope can complete the final element of the ritual to bring The Jelly fully into our world by sacrificing one of the PCs. The Pope's Bed Chambers: This is where the Jelly Pope keeps all of his private things. It's filled with star charts, piles of red herring jelly cookbooks, and his latest sermon notes. A calendar has today's date circled. His diary is hidden under his jelly-filled waterbed, and contains all the details of his master plan to spread The Jelly hivemind and ultimately bring it into our world. This room fills in the gaps with a massive info dump. Also, there's a closet of human skins of people you've run into. Who hasn't the Jelly Pope been? Vault of the Jelly Codex: On the far wall is a big, locked bank vault door. Only the Jelly Pope knows the combination (and it's in his diary). Inside is a storeroom containing barrels of processed jelly drug, his 10 most insane jelly molds and The Jelly Codex. If anyone touches the book, the molds come to life as King Jellies (see above) and attempt to kill or force-feed trespassers the jelly drug to make them one with the hivemind. The Jelly Acquisition Room: A construction elevator leads down into the bowels of The Jelly's domain. Protective suits can be found in the elevator. Miners in suits are scooping hunks of raw jelly into barrels. They have gone mad from their time in The Jelly's presence. PCs must be in this room to use the Jelly Codex & Dimensional Vacuum to send The Jelly back to its own sickly-sweet dimension.

Themed Party
 Roll 1d6
 1-Luau
 2-Halloween
 3-Nautical
 4-Mardi Gras
 5-Circus
 6-Winter Wonderland

Based on Epic Levels Mad Dungeon
 vodcast episode 003 Website and socials epiclevelsrapgods.com
patreon.com/epiclevels instagram.com/epic_levels twitter.com/epic_levels facebook.com/epiclevelsrapgods © 2021 Epic Levels

